Pains and Penalties of Wall Street Speculations.

BUSHNELL'S DEFALCATION.

Right to Arrest a Man for Alleged

The story of the defalcation of William A. Bushnell, formerly bookkeeper and general clerk of Butler, Stillman & Hubbard, the law firm, and who, ill be remembered, decamped with over $30,000 Butler, the senior member of the has already been fully published in the Henald. Bushnell, in his confidential capacity of bookkeeper and clerk, was intrusted with care of these securities, and, as alleged, used the same as margins on his numerous speculations in Wall street. Since his flight, as now alleged, Mr. deposited with Ernest A. Des Marts, a stock broker, and that Eugene Finck, a brother-in-law of Bushnell, also formerly a broker, but who has since lost his seat in the Board of Brokers, was interested in Bushnell's speculations, although his interest was not monetary. It is further claimed that Bushnell had no means to engage in these speculations except the sum of $1,500 per annum, which was his salary, and that Finck, although well aware of this fact, aided him in his stock ventures, really superintending all the transactions. Mr. Butler has accordingly brought a suit in the Supreme Court against Finck to recover the amount of the stolen securities, and on Thursday last obtained an order of arrest sgainst him from Judge Donohue, but being fixed at $25,000. The case came before Judge Barrett in Supreme Court yesterday, on a motion to vacate the order of arrest, on the ground that such order should not be issued, even upon affidavits setting forth facts upon information and belief, unless some reason could be shown that the person stating the facts could not make an affidavit. Judge Barrett denied the motion, but with leave to renew on further papers. posited with Ernest A. Des Marts, a stock broker

THE DR. ROBESON WILL CONTEST. Further testimony was taken in the Dr. Robeson will contest yesterday before Surrogate Calvin, it being attempted to prove what is claimed to be a copy of the original will of the estator. Among other witnesses examined was William H. Sage, a grandson of Dr. Robeson. He testified that he was business agent for his grand-tather in his lifetime and had often read the old gentleman's will—kept in a drawer in the study; that he was familiar with its terms; that the will was dated in 1805, and the codicil February 8, 1870; that he remembered his uncle Benjamin coming to New York on a visit to his grandfather in November, 1874; that his uncle took the will from the tin box in the drawer where it was kept and retained possession of it; that he remembered on one occasion while he was sitting in the study with the door open he heard loud words up stairs in his grandfather's room, and his uncle say, referring to the will, that he would not stand it; that the will was not right and that he would destroy it; witness then went to his uncle and told him to put it back where he got it from; that he had no right to it, and if he was not satisfied with its contents he should wait until after the old gentleman's death and contest it according to law; his uncle refused to put it back, but returned it to his pocket; he made a similar request several times afterward, but his uncle never returned the will to the tin hox; whenever the witness would ask him where the will was his uncle would reply, "It is all right, you need not be uneasy about it." Considerable other unimportant testimony was taken during the day and the further hearing in the case was adjourned until next Saturday. William H. Sage, a grandson of Dr. Robeson.

Court. Hannah Horn, through Messrs. Howe & Hummel, her counsel, made affidavit that after having known the defendant, Michael Krauzer, for fitteen years, he, in May last, wrote her from Europe that if she would send him the funds to come over from Austria, where he then was, he would come here and marry her. She alleges further that she did send him the money and that on his arrival here he again made the same promise; that since that time, though she has frequently asked him to keep his promise to her, he has neglected to do so and now absolutely refuses to marry her, in consequence of which she claims $10,000 damages. On this statement of facts Krauzer was lodged in Ludlow Street Jail on the 27th of January last. Through his counsel, Mr. Charles Strauss, Krauzer gives an entirely different version of the story. He says that Hannah's father, who resided in the same place with him, in the old country, called on him in May last, and, showing him the photograph of a young, beautiful girl, described her in such high terms that he decided to come to this city to see her; that after having procured passage, for which the plaintiff's father paid, he came here, called on Hannah, and, to his chagrin, found her, as he says, anything but the good-looking, lovely girl he had expected to meet, he declares that he never promised to marry her, and that he will not do so under any circumstances, giving, among other reasons, that he is now only twenty years of age. On the ap flication of Mr. Strauss Judge Sheridan yesferday reduced the amount of bait to $250, and intimated that he would hear the case during the present week.

SUMMARY OF LAW CASES. By order of Judge Choate, in the United States District Court, discharges in bankruptcy were granted yesterday to T. Van Raden, Terence Farley, Michael Morray and J. Fry.

Judge Barrett yesterday, on application of Mesars.

Judge Barrett yesterday, on application of Messra, Howe & Hummel, granted an order of arrest against Joseph L. Street, in a suit brought by A. M. Palmer, of the Union Square Theatre, for $5,000 damages on account of alleged defacement of the bill posters of the theatre. A peremptory injunction was also granted restraining Street and his employes froin posting over, defacing or in any manner injuring any of Mr. Palmer's theatrical posters.

A verdict was yesterday rendered before Judge Landon in the Supreme Court, for $34,554 63 for the plaintiffs in the suit of Messra, Sherman & Gillette against the Inman Steamship Company. The action, as will be remembered, was brought to recover damages for throwing overboard a quantity of meat which was being shipped to England on board the City of Brussels, and which, in consequence of the steamer breaking her shaft, and thus her trip being protracted thirty-eight days, spoiled through the melting of the ice in the refrigerators. The verdict was for the full amount claimed. It is understood that an appeal will be taken.

William A. Ellis was arrested in this city about a amount claimed. It is understood that an appeal will be taken.

William A. Ellis was arrested in this city about a week ago on a telegraphic despatch from the Sheriff of Dalias county, Texas, he being charged with obtaining money under false pretences, after which he field the State. The despatch requested the detention of Ellis until an officer was sent from Texas with a requisition from the Governor. The matter came before Judge Barrett, in Supreme Court, Chambers, yesterday, on a writ of habeas corpus sued out by Mr. William F. Howe, counsel for Ellis, to secure his discharge, it being claimed that there was he evidence against him to warrant his detention. In opposition, time was asked by the District Attorney to allow the officer to arrive from Texas, he being expected on Monday or Tuesday next. The Court allowed the matter to go over until Wednesday next, and Ellis meantime was remanded.

John A. Foley has been appointed receiver of Dr. A. Hawley Heath, agent for medicinal waters, on the application of J. W. Parmenter, one of his creditors. ment creditors.

Eaymond & Winn, dealers in druggists, aundries, made an assignment yesterday to Charles L. Nichols, giving three preferences for $4,480 74. JUSTICE PINCKNEY.

Justice Pinckney's case was reopened yesterda before Referce Buell. The defence introduced new witnesses to rebut the evidence of Farley, Anthony and others of the prosecution. Dr. J. O. Swan said that he had known Justice Pinckney many years, and had attended him professionally. He had found him at the court room, suffering from acute ague, for which he had prescribed quinine, capsicum and opium. He had never seen him suffering from the opium. He had never seen him suffering from the effects of intoxicating liquors. Dr. Earnest McNeill had treated the Justice for chills and fever, but never saw him under the induence of liquor. Other witnesses testified to the same effect. Dennis Gallagher, a city marshal, swore that he was present at the court September 27 and 29, 1877, days on which it has been said that Justice Pinckney was intoxicated, but he saw no evidence of drunkenness about him. The case was adjourned until Wednesday next.

about him. day next.

At the close of the proceedings Patrick Anthony, clerk of the court, had a lively tilt with Mr. Reavy, counsel for Justice Pinckney. Each called the other other hard names, and, among other things said. Anthony charged Reavey with stating that he carried the defendant's resignation in his pocket.

BROOKLYN MILK SUPPLY.

ONE OF THE PLACES WHERE COWS ARE NOT

KEPT IN A HEALTHY CONDITION. Mr. Bergh, taking along with him several of the officers of his society, on Friday last, visited the immense cow stables attached to the distilleries of Gaff, Fleischmann & Co., at Blissville, L. I. Procuring a warrant and two police officers of Queens county Mr. Bergh presented himself at the gates of the enclosure surrounding the stables. Within this enclosure he found three immense stables, containing, as near as could be counted, about nine hundred cows. An ex-ternal survey of the premises revealed the fact that ternal survey of the premises revealed the fact that there was not a single door or window open, and the atmosphere arrested the progress of all present. The wretched animals were panting for want of air and coughing. Those that were lying down lay upon a bed of fitth, which was forced up against the sides of the narrow stalls some sixteen inches high by the weight of their bodies. With ropes eighteen and twenty inches long they were tied by their necks to the front of the stalls, which in no case allo wed them to rest their heads otherwise than by being suspended by the rope. Many were lying down, but the insufficient space necessitated their partly resting on one another. In front of these suffering creatures were troughs, through which was running a scalding slop conducted by gutters connected with the distillery of Gaff, Fleischmann & Co. The slop on being examined was found to be hot and acrid in the extreme. The ceilings, which, on being measured, were found to be about seven feet high, were black, sliny and covered with cobwebs and dirt to the extent of sixteen and eighteen inches.

Mr. Bergh expressed his determination once more to wage war on such cruelty to animals, but took no action yesterday.

A CLERGYMAN'S WARD.

In the Surrogate's Court there was filed yesterday the report of the auditor, Morgan J. O'Brien, in the case of Mary C. Gifford against Rev. William A. Masker, her guardian, which, as previously reported in the Herald, was action brought to compet the guardian to account for some $1,200 bounty and pension moneys left to the petitioner by her father, James Gifford, who died at the battle of Ball's Binff in the late war. The guardian alleges in his answer that of the moneys he received belonging to his ward $600 were invested in a second mortgage on land in Orange county, this State; that such sum was loot through foreclosure of a prior mortgage, and that $300 of said moneys were founded to Charles A. Hunter on a promissory note for the benefit of the ward's estate. The auditor, in this report, finds, however, that the $600 elaimed to have been loaned on mortage on lost in the termort of the sum of the morey and that the mortgage was satisfied and canalled of record. He further finds that the $300 claimed to have been loaned on mortage on lost in the company of the sum o 15,000 4,600
